

HUMAN PYRE
TOUCHED OFF
BY BLACK HAND

Five Persons Were Burned to Death, Several Others Were Burned and Half a Hundred Rescued From Death

IN TENEMENT HOUSE
FIRE IN NEW YORK

Firemen and Policemen Performed Heroic Work Today on East Seventy-third Street--The Building Was Destroyed.

New York, Nov. 16.—Five persons were killed, several others were injured and half a hundred were rescued from death by firemen and police, when a tenement house at 221 East 73rd street was totally destroyed by a fire, of supposed incendiary origin, early this morning. The known dead are:

Antonio Lorea, Joseph Randazzo, Salvatore Tiazza, Santa Tiazza, Antonio Sclardo.

Three of the bodies were not identified for some time, but they were later learned to be the two Tiazas and Sclardo. The owner of the building, Charles the "Black Hand" was responsible for the fire.

The bodies of Lorea and Randazzo were found, badly charred, on the fourth floor.

WITTE GRAPPLES WITH IT.
Martial Law May Be Declared in St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 16.—Count Witte and his cabinet were in session throughout the afternoon and evening discussing the situation and a number of prominent liberals were called in for consultation. Grand Duke Nicholas was present part of the time. The possibility that the government might be compelled, if the situation grew worse, to declare martial law in St. Petersburg was considered but as far as has been learned no definite decision in this respect was reached.

While the League of Leagues is disposed to back up the strike, the workmen are undoubtedly alienating much public sympathy by their recklessness. Many liberals openly declare that the strike is a tactical blunder which may prove disastrous, but this temperate counsel is rejected.

The employees of the St. Petersburg and Tsarskoe-Selo railroad joined the strike late last night.

MAKE A THREAT.
"Black Hundred" Say They Will Retaliate in Kind.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 16.—Members of the "Black Hundred" organization, at noon today, issued a notice to the effect that if the troops fired on the strikers, they would retaliate by massacring all the intellectuals in the city.

SOME RESUME, OTHERS HOLD OUT.

BROTHERS QUARRELED.

Albra Tetherly Arraigned for Assault With Dangerous Weapon.

Kitterly, Me., Nov. 16.—Albra Tetherly of Elliot was arraigned before Trial Justice Aaron B. Cole yesterday, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon upon his brother, Fred, Tuesday, and the case was continued for a week pending the result of the wounded man's injuries. Fred received a bullet in the groin, but the wound is not considered dangerous.

The defendant admitted in court that he did the shooting, but was forced to do so in self-defense, when, as he claims, he was struck over the head with an axe.

SWARTHMORE, 27; LAFAYETTE, 0.

Defeated Team Could Not Withstand Terrible Rushes.

Philadelphia, Nov. 16.—Unable to stop the terrific rushes of the heavy Swarthmore football team, Lafayette college was defeated yesterday afternoon at Whittier field, by a one-sided score of 27 to 0. Swarthmore being out of Lafayette's territory and the former's all-round playing was superior to that of Lafayette.

THREE MEN ON A ROCK.

Yale Students Passed Seventeen Hours on It.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—After spending seventeen hours on a small rock in Long Island sound, about a mile off Bradford, three Yale students, Harold F. Damon of Honolulu, William Baxter, Jr., of Wilmington, Del., and W. H. Courson of Scranton, Pa., were rescued after 11 o'clock last night by Capt. Edward Baldwin of Bradford. The three students were little the worse for their perilous experience and declared that they had had a fine time.

The party started at 5 o'clock in the morning on a duck shooting trip in two small duck boats. Shortly afterwards a stiff gale sprang up, and as their boats were in imminent danger of being swamped the boys were forced to make for the nearest land. This was Tanton rock, which at high tide is about six feet above water. Here they spent the day, drenched by flying water and chilled by a cold wind.

The sea was so rough that approach to the rock was impossible although William Stannard made the attempt in the evening in a duck boat. On his return he reported that he had obtained no reply to his shouts. A little later, however, the wind died away, and Captain Baldwin found it possible to reach the rock, from which he rescued the party and brought them safely ashore.

ODELL DENIED THE STATEMENT BY HYDE

Says He Did Not Plan Retaliatory Legislation Against the Mercantile Trust Company.

New York, Nov. 16.—Former Governor Odell testified today before the legislative investigating committee. He denied Hyde's statement that he planned the retaliatory legislation against the Mercantile Trust company, to force the settlement for losses sustained by him in a shipwrecking combine, saying he had nothing to do with the introducing of either the Ambler or Fish bills, repealing the charter of the trust company.

Odell said that as far as he knew, no money ever came to him from any insurance company for campaign purposes but such funds might have come through the National committee, or Senator Platt, as the latter gathered all funds until last year.

Senator Depew testified that he never knew of the Squire or Hartley accounts until the investigation. He had heard of campaign contributions by the Equitable but had nothing to do with them and did not solicit them. He first knew of the syndicate when in a committee meeting one day Squire suggested that it would be a good thing for the Equitable to go into the Union Pacific syndicate, saying he thought the officers and directors should participate in the profits over and above what should come to the society. That general view was adopted.

LAST HARD PRACTICE.

Yale's Football Team Given Its Final Discipline Before Saturday's Game.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 16.—Yale's football team was put through its last hard practice before the Princeton game yesterday, there being a secret practice, followed by a fifteen minute scrimmage, which was witnessed by 900 cheering students who marched to the field headed by a band. It was the second time that the students have practiced songs and cheers this year at the field and the noise they made seemed to be an inspiration to the first which tore up the scrubs at will, although there were several subs in the "varsity ranks."

Forbes, the tackle, was again out of the lineup, as the coaches want to see him today. Forbes has an injured hand. Yale's second string of backs played swiftly and it was again demonstrated that there is little choice between the first six candidates for the back field position.

MANY MET DEATH
IN MINE EXPLOSION

Seven Are Supposed to Have Been Killed at Bentleyville, Pa., Late Yesterday—Terrific Concussion.

Monongahela City, Pa., Nov. 16.—Undoubtedly killed and probably blown to pieces, seven men are lying in the depths of the new shaft of the Brannell Coal company on the outskirts of Bentleyville, while another outside the mine is dead as the result of a gas explosion.

Late yesterday the seven men without thought of danger stepped into the cage and descended into the mine. They were building a concrete water ring or ditch 50 feet down the shaft in order to catch the dripping water. About five minutes after the men descended a terrific explosion occurred, which blew huge pieces of timber out of the mine like sky rockets as high as 150 feet into the air. The tangle and all the mine rigging were torn down and debris scattered in heaps all around. A shovelful which lay at the top of the shaft was hurled with such violence that it sank four inches into a plank. It is believed that the men were instantly killed, and probably fell to the bottom of the shaft.

STRUGGLED FOR HIS LIFE

John O'Neil Fell Into Pulp Vat at Bellows Falls

PROBABLY CAN'T RECOVER

Remained in the Substance for Hour and a Half, And After Being Taken Out Lapsed Into a Comatose Condition.

Bellows Falls, Nov. 16.—John O'Neil, an employee of the International Paper company here, had a terrible battle for his life in a huge pulp vat yesterday, and although rescued just in the nick of time will probably die as a result of the ordeal through which he passed. For an hour and one-half he stood in icy cold pulp, in a vat eight feet deep, just keeping his head above water by standing on his tip toes and straining every muscle in his body.

Just how O'Neil fell in is not known, as he has been in a comatose condition ever since being pulled out. It is supposed that he was filling a vat, for this purpose standing on a piece of temporary plank, when he slipped in. That was probably about 11 o'clock. At 11:45 o'clock his fellow employees missed him, and began a systematic search.

At 12:30 o'clock Foreman James Gately heard groans coming from the vat; and upon looking in, saw O'Neil's head just sticking out of the pulp. He got a ladder, descended into the tank, and lifted O'Neil out bodily.

The victim immediately became unconscious. He was hustled to his home, and stimulants administered. His arms and legs were entirely benumbed, and doctors worked over him several hours to restore circulation. The water used in the tank is of the same temperature as the river, which on account of the recent cold weather was almost at the freezing point.

It was later discovered that only O'Neil's rare presence of mind saved him from almost instant death. A block of wood which was found at the bottom of the vat at the point where he was rescued, showed that he had evidently after going to the bottom, and again coming to the top, managed to get a foothold on it, just enabling him to keep his head above the pulp.

Burlington, Nov. 16.—Many business men of this city have tried to learn the whereabouts of J. W. DeRohn, who posed as the manager and who is now believed to have been the entire outfit of the Cambridge Mercantile Agency, with an office in The Strong building. DeRohn left the city suddenly some time ago, when he knew that the sheriff's department had warrant for his arrest. ## CONG. FOSTER HONORED.

Tendered a Farewell Reception at Burlington Last Night.

Burlington, Nov. 16.—Friends of Representative D. J. Foster to the number of nearly 60, representing nearly every branch of industry and nearly every profession, gathered last night at Dorn's cafe to give him a farewell banquet to celebrate his departure for Washington, where he will begin his third term as congressman from the first district.

The banquet began shortly after 8:30, and previous to being seated at the tables those present were personally greeted by Senator W. F. Dillingham and Mr. Foster. Senator Proctor was unable to be present, but he sent a letter of regret, which was read later in the evening.

In introducing Representative Foster, Mr. Lyman said: "We will now hear from the man we are all here to honor." Before Mr. Foster could reply he had to wait some time to allow the applause to cease, every man present rising to his feet and giving him a salute. Mr. Foster said he knew he had the friendship and approval of the men gathered about the tables, but he wished to thank them for their public expression. He said it was difficult for representatives to go to the House and not do good work, because they had before them two good men, every man present rising to his feet and giving him a salute. Senator Dillingham was greeted with prolonged applause. He said it was a pleasure for him to be present and assist in paying to Representative Foster a compliment which he so justly deserved. He spoke of the history of Vermont, of its freedom and independence; of its sturdy men who had conducted it through the various crises. He said the boss system had never prevailed here, that the representatives were responsible directly to the people and that this system had been gratifying to the representatives and he believed satisfactory to the people.

MANIA FOR STEALING.

Keene, N. H., Boy Arrested in St. Albans Yesterday.

St. Albans, Nov. 16.—Arthur Fred, a 19-year-old boy from Keene, N. H., was arrested yesterday charged with the theft of a number of articles from the safe in the lively office of C. H. Cook. The articles stolen included a lady's gold watch chain, $5-gold piece, a gold pin and lot of old and valuable coins. Young Fred was suspected of the job and when arrested and put in jail, acknowledged the deed. It appears that the boy came to town recently, hunting for work and applied at Cook's stable for a job. He noticed that the door of the safe was unlocked and the temptation to steal was strong to resist. Watching his opportunity he went to the office on Friday and again on Monday and took the articles, which he afterwards pawned at Orrin Sweet's. Fred, who has all the ear and finger works of a cigarette fiend, also stole an overcoat and a pair of gloves from a fellow boarder in the Anderson boarding house. These he tried to pawn, but Mr. Sweet had become suspicious of him and refused to loan him any more money.

Chamberlain, his would-be assassin, Tuesday, in which he says that from now on he will do his best to secure a pardon for himself, using every means in his power to accomplish that object. TOOK WEAPON
ON HIS CALL

Attilio Olgiati Was Overpowered at Girl's Home

WORRIED BECAUSE JILTED

Telephoned Pretty Assunta Del-Sheu That He Was Going to Call, and So a Policeman Was Called to House.

His love spurned by pretty, sixteen years old Assunta Del-Sheu, Attilio Olgiati of Montpelier became goaded to desperation and yesterday afternoon called at the home of her uncle, Harry J. Bertoli, where she lived, with the intention, the police believe, of having a final settlement. They say that Olgiati, after a conversation with the girl, was overpowered just as he was drawing a revolver, by an officer who had previously been summoned, by Mr. Bertoli, and by two other men who happened to be present. The unhappy man was then placed in the county jail.

Olgiati was in Montpelier city court today on the charge of assault with intent to kill and being armed with a dangerous weapon. The case was put over to Saturday, and it is likely that the respondent will waive examination and be bound over to county court.

There is, back of the affair, the story of the great love of a young man for a pretty and vivacious Italian girl, the rural resident of Assunta on her part, the acceptance of tokens from him to her, and finally the break in their relations which drove the youth to the resort to threats if she persisted in her refusal, with the final denouncement in the police court.

Both the young people are well known in the Italian colonies of Barre and Montpelier, and the young man has relatives in this city. He is 23 years of age and has for some time been employed as a stonecutter by Ryle, McCormick & Co. He has generally been considered a steady-going, industrious fellow. When he met Assunta, and her pretty ways, he lost his heart, and from that time he was constant in his attentions. Assunta received those attentions in a manner to lead the young man to build for himself prospects of a happy home. Then there came up something which caused the girl to grow cool in her attitude toward her lover, and finally the coolness became so pronounced that he saw his visits were not wanted. Then the steel of jealousy was driven into his heart.

Still loving the girl, he repeatedly wrote, each time reasserting his love, but receiving no response. Then, the girl says, his letters became threatening, and the last one bore the ominous signs of the skull and cross-bones. These letters have been saved. Finding that the letters did no good, Olgiati yesterday afternoon called the girl by telephone and said that he was going to call on her. As it was apprehended there might be trouble, the sheriff's office was notified, and Deputy Lawson was sent to Mr. Bertoli's house at the Pioneer. The deputy waited two hours, and the young man did not put in an appearance. Just about as the deputy had decided to give up for the afternoon, Olgiati was seen coming across the field. The officer hustled into another room, and the girl received her caller in a room which was within easy call.

The two conversed for some time, and the girl turned over some jewelry. Then Olgiati became excited. At that time, and the police say it was most opportunely, the deputy, Mr. Bertoli and the two other men appeared in the room. They made a rush for Olgiati as he made a motion which led them to believe he was going to draw a revolver. After considerable exertion, Olgiati was overpowered and subdued. The revolver was taken away from him. It was a .32-caliber weapon, and the bullets in the cartridges were cut and loaded. The weapon has been in Olgiati's possession for some time.

One of the young man's friends said that Attilio would never have been so rash if he had not been drinking, while others say that there were no indications that he had been drinking.

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 16.—Hon. Stephen Salisbury, the noted philanthropist and one of the richest men in New England, died today of pneumonia.

SUSAN COOK KEITH.

Death This Morning of the Oldest Resident of Barre.

Mrs. Susan Cook Keith, the oldest resident of Barre, since the death of Sarah Prentiss Ayers, died this morning at 4:25 at the home of Judge W. A. Boyce on North Main street. Mrs. Keith was 92 years, 10 months and four days old. She had been ill for about four weeks, with a mild form of pneumonia, but owing to her great age she was unable to rally from the effects of it, and had been in a critical condition for several days prior to her death.

Susan Towne was Mr. Keith's maiden name, she being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Towne, who were among the early settlers of Barre town. Mrs. Keith was born on Trow hill on the farm now owned by John Trow, but not in the house which Mr. Trow now lives. She received an education in the Barre district schools, and as a young woman went to New Hampshire to teach school. She also taught in northern Massachusetts. She was married on January 25, 1838, to William Cook, a brother of Benjamin B. Cook of seminary street, and of Mrs. Maria Tilden of North street. Mr. Cook was killed by lightning in Washington, Vt., on September 12, 1850.

On February 24, 1858, Mrs. Cook was married to Leonard Keith, who lived in the house now occupied by Dr. W. D. Reid, but which at that time was located where Dr. J. Henry Jackson's house now stands. Mr. Keith died on January 21, 1868. Sixteen years ago Mrs. Keith went to live in the family of Judge W. A. Boyce, and has made her home there ever since.

Mrs. Keith retained her remarkable mental faculties up to the last moment of her life, and until she was taken ill a month ago was as sprightly as many persons, years younger. She had recently walked from the home of Judge Boyce to the home of Mrs. James A. Whitcomb on Summer street. She took a great interest in all the affairs of the times, and especially liked to watch the growth of the town of her birth.

Mrs. Keith leaves several nieces and nephews in Stowe, and a niece, Miss Hattie S. Towne of Berlin; also a sister, Mrs. Charles N. Bailey of Newbury.

The funeral arrangements are not completed.

During this sitting 62 cases were cleared up, 49 having been heard and 14 settled or discontinued. There now remain on the docket 52 cases.

The last day of the term of the court was, as was reported, had looked the premises over very thoroughly, and it was their duty to look after the interests of the public. The building is not safe now. We have the city ordinance to govern our actions, and we would be very foolish to set them aside simply to please Mr. Hale.

Mr. Hale replied that any one with common sense could see that what he asked was only reasonable and he thought the council should grant his request.

Alderman Adie retorted that others were made to live up to the ordinances and he saw no reason to make an exception in Mr. Hale's case. If he thought the fire committee lacked common sense he would find out differently.

Mr. Hale said he had the property there and he must use it so that it would pay him, to which Adie replied that it was the dollar only that Mr. Hale was looking after, while they had to look to the safety of the public.

Mayor Barclay added that the addition Mr. Hale wanted to make only added more tinder to the place.

The report was accepted by a unanimous vote.

Mr. Hale remarked that he didn't think it fair or just.

The matter of surface sewer on Pearl street was referred to the street committee with power to act.

The bill of J. L. Arkley for $37.50 for work clearing up about the Arkley place near the Orange reservoir was ordered paid.

The matter of runners for the horse was referred to the supply committee.

The house was moved forward seven feet and raised 21 inches. An addition thirty feet deep has been added at the rear and the whole building brick veneered. Two new piazzas have been added on each side of the building. On the ground floor there are four side entrances and one front entrance. The building is divided into four well appointed tenements. Each apartment is finished in hard wood, heated by steam, lighted by gas and electricity and each kitchen is fitted with a self-gas range and set tubs. HALE ASKS
NEW PERMIT

Which is Granted With Same Restrictions

ASTHAT GRANTED MONDAY

Mr. Hale Implies That the Council Lacks Common Sense, and Declares That It Is Not Treating Him Fairly or Justly.

A special meeting of the city council was held last evening to consider an application from O. H. Hale for a permit to make alterations in the Pavilion. Mr. Hale asked for a permit on Monday evening and one was granted to comply with the building laws. Mr. Hale did not like the conditions and put in a new application which only asked for a permit to raise a portion of the roof eight feet and put windows in the easterly end of the building. The application, as soon as read, was referred to the fire committee, which retired and in a few minutes brought in this report:

"That as this petition is similar to the one granted by the city council on Monday evening the 13th, only that it has been modified, as reported on Monday the foundation is not such as to warrant putting any heavier building on it. We would therefore recommend that a permit be granted and that the foundation be built so as to carry the addition, by putting in solid masonry and brick walls as specified in the report of Monday."

Alderman Burke moved the report be accepted and it was seconded by Alderman Adie.

Mr. Hale, who was present, asked permission to say a word. He declared it would be impossible to put in a solid foundation as called for, this fall, but he was willing to put granite corner stones under the building sufficient to carry the weight of the structure.

Alderman Adie said the committee, to whom the matter was reported, had looked the premises over very thoroughly, and it was their duty to look after the interests of the public. The building is not safe now. We have the city ordinance to govern our actions, and we would be very foolish to set them aside simply to please Mr. Hale.

Mr. Hale replied that any one with common sense could see that what he asked was only reasonable and he thought the council should grant his request.

Alderman Adie retorted that others were made to live up to the ordinances and he saw no reason to make an exception in Mr. Hale's case. If he thought the fire committee lacked common sense he would find out differently.

Mr. Hale said he had the property there and he must use it so that it would pay him, to which Adie replied that it was the dollar only that Mr. Hale was looking after, while they had to look to the safety of the public.
